The electric effect without heater is very similar to a standard lamp; this type of effect is extremely simple to use in almost any application.

This type of insert should not be used in a bathroom, or any other location where liquid water is prominent, unless certain measures have been taken to ensure its safe use and protection from water.

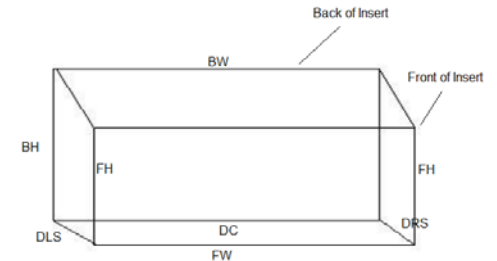

In order to convert your old or existing grate/cast iron insert into an electric glowing coal effect, the following conditions are required:

- The location for this electric insert must be dry, and never exposed to any form of liquid water. Be that from a leaking chimney, or any other source.
- The electric burner shell must be no less than 4.5" Tall

To insure that the custom electric insert will fit and indeed suit your existing grate the following information is required:

- Please send a few photos of the grate for visual reference; top, front, bottom, and angles.
- The power cord for these electric inserts is a standard US type 3-prong cord, which plugs into a normal 110V outlet. Normally, it is 6 feet long.
- Below is a list of dimensions we need to build the burner shell. The burner shell (width and depth) must be able to fit into the grate from the top, so make sure that the width and depth are not wider than any other part of the sides, or else it cannot fit in through the top.

- Front Width (FW):
- Front Height (FH):
- Back Width (BW):
- Back Height (BH):
- Depth at Left Side (DLS):
- Depth at Center (DC):
- Depth at Right Side (DRS):
